

Program administrators are not the only ones with an interest in improving the management and operations of home upgrade programs. Stakeholders in the home performance industry are invested in better programs as well. These industry collaborators have a stake in achieving the goals of the Home Upgrade Program Accelerator and have written letters describing their support.